SUBSTANTIAL WAGERING. Tootles has settled down to Tara's old position as chief fancy. I purposely avoid saying first favourite, for that suggests to me far more substantial eupport from the right quarter than there has been for any-thing to date. There is, however, often some fairly substantial wagering about the unquibted candidutes. This the case of Eton Boy, my first selection for the Cam-bridgeshire. You cannot fail to have noticed that he has been one of the most notable of Cambridgeshiresentrants which has not been paraded in the day there are all sorts of rumours of other people getting ou before the stable stepped in. # "One of the largest and most responsible Tur Accountants of the day."-Vide the Press. Duiwich Hamlet O, Chelsea 3. Bright and interesting football was wit-nessed at Champion Hill in the London Challengo. Cup game between Dulwich Hamlet and Chelsea vesteriar, the profes-sionals winning by 3 goals to 0. Chelsea had Cartwright, Dolby, and Steer playing instead of Betridge, Brown, and Turnbull. In the first half, when Chelsea scored the only goal through Steer, it was obvious that the professionals were taking things rather easy, but the amntenrs were trying very hard to score, and the afforts of Green and Evans, on the Hamlet left wing, were of a very high order. Up against a pair of backs such as Cameron and Cartwright, Green, who is a very little fellow, did some clever things and roused the Hamlet supporters to a high pitch of enthusiasm. The men who stood out in the Dulwich side ware D. K. Wight, centre half, who was always a source of worry to the Chelsea men, and Percy Beales at left half. Hegzai was right off, his game and missed several capital chances of scoring. Of the Chelsea men, Fairgray, who scored the last goal, was about the best, and if he had been fed more assiduously in the first half it is safe to say the score would have been even larger than it was. The second goal was obtained by Taylor when five minutes of the second half had elapsed. He gathered a fine pass by Or-miston and secred the best goal of the match. Dulwich Hamlet 0, Cheisea 3.
