RIPON SENSATION.

It was fitting weather for the ducklingsugly and otherwise—on Saturday at Kemp-ton, but the appropriate tip did not come As a matter of fact Tangiers gave the on. lanen to the favourites in as neat a style and as meety a race as you could wish to and as menty a race as you could wish to see. Of course, I felt inclined to give my-self a gentle kick, for I had been loyal to the winner for some time, but at the very last moment gave Monteith the slight pre-

Then came a little collection of necks and heads, for Monteith, Ugly Duckling, Trespasser (who ran really wall), and King John (on the rails) were very little behind Manilardo. It was a fifting tribute to the ever-criticized handicapper. Yet there was a regular stampede to get on the Duckling, and creatually many of the layers were full up against him—at 3 to 1, too!

CRAG VALE'S DOUBLE.

A sensation was caused at Ripon by the victory of Cruy Vale in the Givendalo II address exactly half an hour after she had won the Yore Welter Handicap over a mile. Major II. Verschoyle's vix-year-old was the first of the two consecutive events year acidly, for although she finished only held a though she finished only half a heath ander of Prince Lionel she was hard in ld by A. Bowley, who also had an evy journey on her in the six-furlong dash, in which she made most of the running after Belovar, who had jumped off with the lend, feil to the rear. Singularly the last-named was made an odds-on favourite for the previous race, but on being started, like Crag Vale, for the second time. Mr. Johnson's horse was the outsider of the party.

Mor Crag Vale had won the first of her two tares she was bought in for 300 gainers, and in the second case her owner had to go to 100 guineas in order to retain her.

TO CHELSEA.

Chelsea 1, Crystal Palace 0.

Crystal Palace, who have succeeded in two previous occasions, were beaten in the inal, at Highbury on Saturday, by Cholsea who now hold the trophy for the first time. The First Leaguers had by no means the easy task which might have been imagined, and their 1-0 victory gives a very fair estimate of the run of the play.

Both forward lines exhibited some excellent work, and the speed and dash of the Palaco attack almost counterbalanced the excellent combination of that of the "Pensioners." The Southern League half-backs played an excellent game and offered a vigorous opposition to the emossing attack. Isley, the right half, causing McNeil and Croal many anxious moments.

Cock was well watched by Bates, and, although the centre forward did well in the first half, he was rarely prominent after the interval. The four backs were sound and the goalkeepers did all that was expected. Alderson having no chance of saving the one goal of the game.

In spite of the rain, which made the ground treacherous, both elevens settled down well, and a fast pace was maintained. Matters were on an equal footing in the first half, and the result of the game burg in the balance. Both attacks worked hard for an opening, and the rival goals had some near escapes. After a period of pressure by the Palace front line, Chelsea broke away, and, from a fine centre by McNeil, Cock hit a post and put the ball over from the rebound.

He had hard luck later when a hot shot by him was fisted over by Alderson. At the other end Little brought Hampton to his knees from a free kick, but again Chelsea broke away, and, from a pass by Croal, McNeil made a brilliant run up the left wing, and, working in, beat Alderson with a fine swerving shot.

THE EX CHAMPION.

"SHOCK" PRACTICE.

VIOLENT FATHER'S PLEA OF NEURALGIA.

A father's cruelty to his three children, shose ages range from fifteen months to five years, was disclosed at the Reigate Police Court on Saturday, when William Oakey, a cowman, of Burstow, pleaded All roads will lead to Olympia to-night, when Billy Wells will try to regain his championship from Joe Beckett, who guilty to the charge and was fined £5. It was stated that because the haby boy, aged aftern months, always cried when he saw his father, Oakey smacked him on the knocked him out in five rounds early last It is a match of many possibilities. face and arms and also hit him with a strap.

Either man may win quickly, yet, on the other hand, the rounds may run into double figures. I think the latter contin-Philip, aged three, was also afraid of his father. The mother told Inspector double figures. I think the latter contingency a rather remote one, as I fancy Beckett will go all out for a quick win. If this does not come within six rounds, he may so exhaust himself as to fall to the return attack of Wells. He will have to carry the battle to the ex-bombardier, since he knows as well or perhaps better than anybody else that he will lose if he stands up and exchanges long shots with the ex-champion.

That style would suit Wells down to the ground, but Beckelt is not likely to box on the lines he adorted against McGoorty and attempted with Carpentier. He saw McGoorty, trained to the minute, box Wells instead of fight him, and he must have noted the punishment Wells administered. No doubt he compared it with his own fight with the obviously unfit American. If he did this, and remembered to hold the scales evenly, he would be forced to admit that Wells' performance was the better one. Having fully weighed all the Thompson, N.S.P.C.C., that her husband hit the boy over the ear with the buckle-end of a strap.

A police constable said that he had cautioned the man. He had heard the children crying in the house, although it was 100 yards away from the road.

Oakey told the Bench that if he struck the children it was with the intention of doing good. He did not like to hear his little boys saying "Shan't" to their mother.

mother.

"I had a painful attack of neuralgia," he said, "and when a man suffers as I do he does not want a lot of crying bables he does not want a lot of crying babies about him."

The chairman (Sir Jeremiah Colman), in fining Oakey, said that he richly deserved imprisonment, but if they sent him to gad it would be the wife and children who

When she heard the sentence the old woman, with tears in her eyes, pleaded with the magistrates on behalf of her son. The original decision was revised, and the woman dried her tears and left the court smiling with her son.

SOBS FOR AN ARRESTED PASTOR.

Many women, members of the congregation of the Rev. James Atherton Sinclair, the Adington Congregational pastor who suddenly left his pastorate and was afterwards arrested in London, attended the Chorley Police Court on Saturday, and burst into tears when the minister was further remanded until Friday, bail not being allowed.

Sinclair is charged with having obtained a banker's cheque for £50 with intent to defraud Captain Corner, of Adlington.

It was intimated that a further charge of wearing military uniform without authority might be preferred against Sinclair, who was popular with his flock during the twelve months of his ministry.

his opponent's rushes. This indicates that each is profiting by lessons learned during the past twelve months. Wells has been rushed off his feet by boxers other than Beckett, and has won through, but it is questionable whether any of the other rushers was as strong as the champion is, or rushed so purposefully. Beckett does not charge in aimlessly, only to be so surprised when he gets close in as to be unable to do anything. If he gets to close quarters he will be prepared to inflict all the damage he can, or is allowed to do. The question arises: Is the quality of the boxers employed by Wells to practise "Beckett rushes" up to the necessary standard? I doubt it. Still, practice makes perfect, and no doubt Wells will be all the better for these gymnasium reproductions of what he expects to happen in the ring. Here is another phase which occurs to me. It is based on a remark Wells made in explanation of his swift defeat by Carpentier: "I thought he was going to rush me, and he didn't," said Wells.

In case Beckett has not heard this I present if to him meats.

$160 FINE FOR RAZING HOUSES.

out the permission of the London County Council.
He said that he had pulled down the houses to extend his building operations, and added that he was unable to recover the rents from the tenants.

The magistrate: That does not matter twopence. You pulled down the houses after Parliament said you must not.

LIFE FOR A PENNY.

Evidence of how an act of courtesy was turned to tragedy was given at an Ashbydel-lack couch inquest on Saturday, when a verdict of "Accidental Death" was returned.

The victim was Frederick Hextall, aged eight, of Market Bosworth, who, having opened the gates of the park in order to allow a brewery motor-van to pass, ran under the wheels of the vehicle in an endeavour to secure a penny thrown to him by the driver.

The driver was exonerated from all blame. Wells.

In case Beckett has not heard this I present it to him gratis. It may be equally as valuable to him as Carpentier thinks his cryptic message will be to Wells. Though Carpentier's faith in Wells is strong to the extent of £100, I note that many other famous boxers and good judges, once staunch admirers of Wells, have gone over to his friend the enemy. In these circumstances one feels doubtful about pitting one's judgment against theirs, the more so because Wells is such an unreliable quantity.

He has let his friends down with a bump before, and may do so again to-night, but
